

People. Environment. Design

team3 is an award-winning, multi-disciplinary architectural practice that aspires to create human-centric and contextual architectural expressions. Our work draws on contemporary influences while responding to local climatic, historical and social settings. Founded in 2012 in New Delhi by the three partners Sanjay Bhardwaj, Shubhra Dahiya, and Vijay Dahiya, team3 specialises in creating holistic projects across diverse scales.

Working cohesively as a unit, team3 utilises the diverse skill sets of our thirty-plus strong team in an open and collaborative environment. We believe that good design is a product of strong collaboration within the team, amongst consultants and associates, with the client, as well as with artisans and workers on site.

Our projects speak of an honest and authentic response to context and available material with a meticulous approach to design detailing. With every project, we aspire to create designs that are economically viable, socially responsible and environmentally sustainable.

With work spanning typologies from large-scale urban planning to architectural and interior design projects, team3 has been the recipient of numerous awards, including four commendations from IIID, an honourable mention from International Architecture Awards, and a CNBC Real Estate Award, amongst others. Our work has also been featured in leading national and international publications such as Architect and Interiors India, Perspective Global and Wallpaper.

Process

Our studio functions as a laboratory for the testing of ideas and concepts, with each team member bringing in a sense of ownership and commitment towards devising the best results.

Our process is defined by a research-centric approach coupled with the use of the latest advancements in technological tools.
